Solutions for difficult designs - start of use Creo Parametric 2.0

inForm.Intro

Dear Readers,

In the first three months in 2013, our current apprentices and those who recently completed their training are mainly shaping the news of this newsletter. We are very proud of them as the topic of training and apprentices is a long tradition at Braunform GmbH and enjoys a high priority in the company.

In this sense - I wish you and your family a beautiful spring time and pleasant holidays.

Yours
Pamela Braun
General Manager

Project "energy detectives" starts at Braunform

To identify the potential for energy savings at Braunform our apprentices have been appointed as "energy detectives". Background is the accelerated energy transition of the German government by closing nuclear power plants and to move towards renewable energy sources such as solar, wind power etc. for the good of our environment. To save energy and also money – this is also contributed by Braunform. To support this, an energy management system according to DIN EN ISO 50001 will be established with the aim to optimize the entire organization energetically.

As part of the trainee project our apprentices will investigate four different potential energy hogs within this year.

Small stand but even more interesting contacts on the PHARMAPACK in Paris

On 13.+14. February the PHARMAPACK Europe fair in Paris took place.

At a booth of only 6 m² the Braunform Sales Managers had many interesting conversations and could establish new contacts.

We are all looking forward to the next PHARMAPACK fair in Philadelphia, USA, in June - and the first participation of Braunform in this fair.

Seven successful examinees

These days the management of Braunform congratulated seven young toolmakers for successfully passing their exam. After a three and a half years training their final certificates were handed over to them. The excellent performance of two apprentices has even been awarded by a commendation of the Chamber of Industry and Commerce.
